INDEX OF HOSPITALS AND SANATORIA WITH TUBERCULOSIS BEDS

INTRODUCTION

This is the eleventh issue of the Index of Hospitals and Sanatoria with Tuberculosis Beds in the United States and Territories. This publication provides information on inpatient facilities available for the care of tuberculosis patients. Data, as of May 1, 1957, are presented on State, local, private, and Federal hospitals that had at least five tuberculosis beds, exclusive of tuberculosis beds located in mental and penal institutions. This Index, for the first time, excludes tuberculosis beds in Federal mental and penal institutions that are exclusively for the care of persons confined to such institutions.

NUMBER OF FACILITIES AS OF MAY 1, 1957 AND RECENT TRENDS

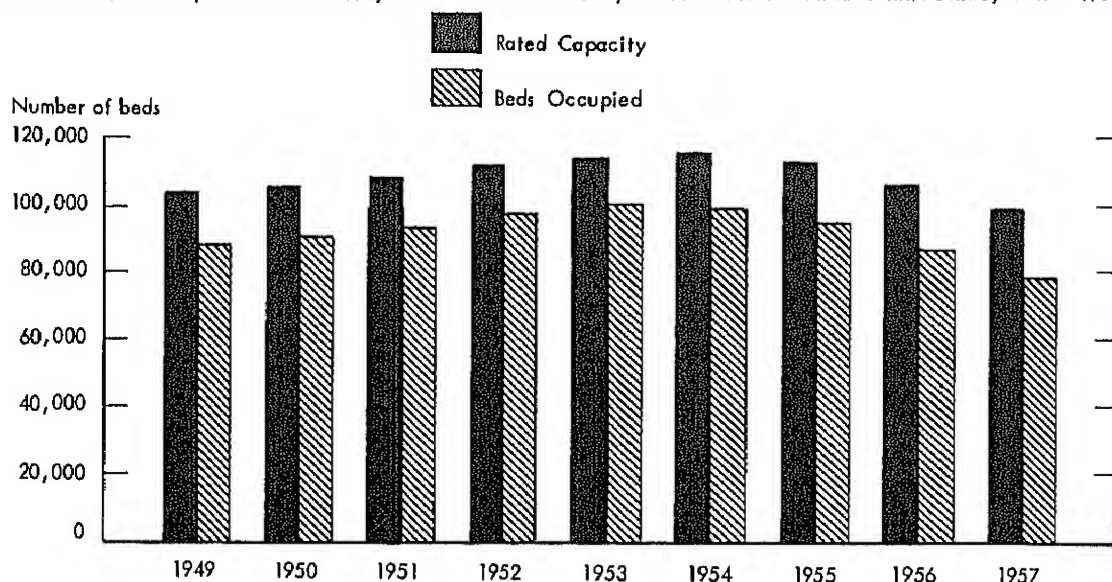

Five hundred and sixty-eight hospitals are included in this Index; 458 are non-Federal institutions and 110 are facilities of the Federal government. These institutions reported a rated capacity of about 99,000 beds, of which slightly over 78,000 were occupied as of May 1, 1957. ^{1/}

Between 1956 and 1957, there was a decline of about 8 percent in the number of beds occupied by tuberculous patients in these classes of facilities. The decrease was about 7 percent in non-Federal hospitals and 12 percent in Federal installations. These declines are in line with the trend of recent years; between 1954 and 1955, there was a decline of about 5 percent; between 1955 and 1956, the decrease approximated 9 percent.

As shown in Chart 1, there has been a steady downward trend both in the rated capacity and number of beds occupied in tuberculosis hospitals in recent years. The highest rated capacity was in 1954 - since then, the total has declined approximately 14 percent. The greatest number of beds were occupied in 1953 - since then the total has declined about 21 percent.

^{1/} Data are collected from State, local, and private institutions by means of a post card questionnaire that was mailed during May, 1957. Federal data were obtained through direct contact with the responsible agencies.

TUBERCULOSIS BEDS (RATED CAPACITY) AND BEDS OCCUPIED, UNITED STATES AND TERRITORIES, 1949 - 1957

DATA ON NON-FEDERAL HOSPITALS

On May 1, 1957, there were 83,367 tuberculosis beds in hospitals owned and operated by States and Territories, local governments (city, county, and district), and by private, charity, and non-profit organizations. This is 4,198, about five percent, less than in 1956. Almost half of this decrease in beds occurred in facilities that were closed during the year. The remainder is a net decrease of beds in hospitals still receiving tuberculosis patients.

While the rated capacity of these institutions was 83,367, only 79,182 beds were available to tuberculosis patients. The "beds available" figure is the rated capacity of the hospital minus the beds not available for immediate use. Beds may be unavailable because of lack of need, lack of professional staff, lack of funds, needed repairs, and similar causes. Since it is sometimes useful to discuss "occupancy rates" in terms of "beds available" as well as "rated capacity," both percentages are shown in Table 1.

As of the date of this survey, 64,502 tuberculosis beds were occupied in the non-Federal hospitals. This is about 77 percent of the rated capacity and 81 percent of the beds available for immediate use. The data, by State, 1/ are shown in Table 1; beds occupied, as a percent of rated capacity, ranged from under 50 percent in three States to over 90 percent in one State. The highest percents of occupancy were in the East South Central Region (an average of 81 percent) and the lowest in the New England Region (63.2). ^{1/}

1/ The term "State" will be used to refer to both States and Territories.

In all but seven States, the number of tuberculosis beds occupied, as of May 1, 1957, was less than the number occupied as of April 1, 1956 (Table 3). Five States had percentage declines in the number of beds occupied of over 20 percent while 2 States had a percentage increase of over 10 percent. In 30 States there were no changes in the number of tuberculosis institutions operated, and in 23 States there was a reduction in the number of facilities. In four States (Kansas, New York, Ohio, and Virginia) a new tuberculosis hospital was opened during the year.

Thirty-two non-Federal institutions that had beds for five or more tuberculosis patients on April 1, 1956 were no longer providing care to tuberculosis patients on May 1, 1957. These 32 hospitals had a rated capacity of 1,811 beds and were providing service to 1,046 patients in April, 1956. Nineteen of these closed facilities had formerly been specialized tuberculosis hospitals and 13 were tuberculosis sections of general hospitals (Table A). In addition, 9 hospitals were dropped from the list since the number of beds for tuberculosis became less than 5.

As indicated in Chart 2, considerably fewer non-Federal tuberculosis hospitals and beds were closed last year than in the previous two years. Sixty percent of the tuberculosis hospitals that closed in the last three years had less than 50 beds rated capacity.

DATA ON FEDERAL HOSPITALS

On May 1, 1957, there were 15,597 tuberculosis beds in Federal hospitals. This is 1,804, about ten percent, less than in 1956. The number of beds occupied by tuberculosis patients in Federal hospitals was 13,672, being 87.7 percent of rated capacity. For Federal hospitals the number of beds available is the same as the rated capacity.

There are 110 Federal hospitals in this group, 86 of which are operated by the Veterans Administration, 18 by the Public Health Service, and 6 by the Department of Defense. The Federal hospitals are listed by city in the geographic listing and by name of the hospital and under the name of the operating agency in the alphabetical listing.

ADJUSTMENTS IN DATA

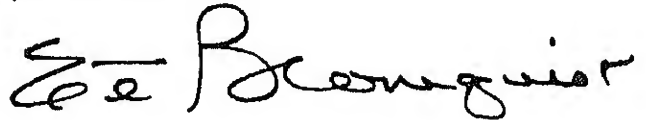

Continuing efforts have been made in publishing these indices to refine the data presented. In recent years, additional facts have become available which indicate that a number of tuberculosis facilities in mental and penal institutions were inadvertently included in previous listings. Because of the highly specialized nature of these facilities, it is felt these data should not be routinely included in this Index.

In April, 1956, as shown in table 3, 1,844 beds and 1,775 patients in the neuropsychiatric hospitals of the Veterans Administration and 92 beds and 50 patients in Federal penitentiaries were excluded from the listing.^{1/} The Federal data shown in the summary table, in table 3 and in chart 1 have taken these adjustments into account. Therefore, direct comparisons cannot be made between these data and similar material in earlier directories.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

We extend our thanks to the superintendents and other hospital personnel who provided the information contained in this publication. We also want to thank all other persons who offered us helpful information or who assisted us in locating facilities which had not been listed in previous editions.
